16. Describe any constraints or opportunities that affected performance under this KPI

There have been two main issues that have affected waste separation at Amcor in FY2012 and will continue in FY2013. Firstly, some of our imported (and local) raw materials are delivered to sites in packaging that is increasingly difficult to recycle. For example, some imported materials are delivered in treated wooden crates that many mulching and recycling business won't accept. Secondly, some materials, such as delivery crates, pallets, cores and flexibles off cuts, that used to be collected for recycling, are no longer collected (and therefore are either stored onsite or diverted back to landfill) as demand for such products on the international market appears to have waned.

Amcor is a manufacturer of products, of which a majority have recycled content. As such we do not directly purchase packaging products, but rather are supplied with bulk packaged goods. However, as a Packaging supplier we work with our customers to find the most sustainable solution for their packaging needs.
